Description:

Something special!

First of all a guitar is supposed to sound good. There are other important elements of course, such as the look, the workmanship, the reaction and the handling, which play an important role, too. Still, compared to the sound, these characteristics are inferior. According to that, a guitar can look absolutely stylish, but if it sounds bad, it is good for nothing. So ain't it perfect, that with our ASW-60 we can now present you a western guitar, that possesses all the important qualities mentioned? The sound of the ASW-60 is clear and voluminous - a 5 band equalizer helps to control it perfectly and to give more utterance to it. Relating to the high-class workmanship, the massive resonating wood belly stands out. It provides more substance to the guitar and makes the handling very comfortable. And the beautiful dreadnought form, in combination with the natural coloring, turns this western guitar into a real classic. So playing the ASW-60 definitely brings great joy.
