Description:

When ghosts and ghouls appear on Halloween night and the undead rise from their graves, the angels of death are not far away. Numerous myths and legends tell of angels of death whose task is to bring the souls of the deceased to the afterlife. That's why their appearance usually sends an ice-cold shiver down people's spines. Which soul will be picked up next?

In this animated still figure from Europalms, the angel of death is dressed in a thin, semi-transparent hooded robe and a coverlet hanging in tatters. His bony chest protrudes from a large hole in the robe and is mysteriously highlighted by a green LED. Red flashing LEDs in the eye sockets complete the eerie light effect. Due to a built-in mechanism, the arms and wings of the Halloween decoration figure move and seem to want to grab visitors, while the head performs circular movements. Meanwhile, a loud groaning and moaning can be heard, accompanied by the rattling of chains.

By integrated microphone, the switch pad "Step here" or wired, manual control, the animation of the decorative figure can be activated.

The power supply of the Halloween figure can be done via battery operation, USB-A cable for 5 V operation via power bank or power supply.
