Description:

The black angel of death is an impressive and terrifying Halloween decoration for your premises.

The spooky figure depicts a sinister angel of death with his wings spread wide, just waiting to capture all the poor souls and drag them off to the realm of the dead. He is clad in a gloomy, floor-length robe, which is completed by a black, frayed, ragged cloak that also covers his skull. His arms with their gnarled hands can be individually bent into shape to give him even more expression.

When the animation is activated, the black angel tosses its head back and forth while its eyes glow a menacing red. At the same time, his wings move, giving the impression that he is about to pounce on his victims at any moment. This ominous effect is accompanied by his bitterly evil laughter, while cries of fear can already be heard in the background.

The figure's animation can be activated via an integrated microphone or wired manual control. It is powered either by batteries, a USB-A cable for 5 V operation via power bank or mains adapter.
